'OVER HILL' TOWNS STUDY FLOOD ZONE

Livermore and Pleasanton will decide next week whether to call special elections to join Washington Township in Flood Control Zone 5.

In joint sessions, city councils of both towns last Monday heard county officials explain benefits of the zone. Cattleman who oppose the zone were present but did not protest.

Mayor Louis Gardella of Livermore said his council will consider the issue Monday, and Mayor James Trimmingham of Pleasanton added his council will take it up Tuesday.

Both towns will explore the possibility of consolidating the election with school-bond balloting some seven weeks hence. According to State law, cities in a flood-curb zone must express their willingness to join before it can be formed.

Township interests have indicated they want the zone formed before February—with the "over-the-hill" areas if possible, but alone if necessary.

NEWARK REZONING

Today the Board of Supervisors will set the date for a final public hearing on rezoning of Newark, according to Supervisor Chester E. Stanley.

Locals Pull Upset In League Opener

By BOB HIRD

The Washington Hi Huskies, shooting for their second upset tomorrow afternoon, scored the first big surprise of the SCVAL season last Friday as they tied favored Los Gatos, 20-20, on the local gridiron.

The Huskies will face a favored James Lick eleven tomorrow afternoon on the Comet's gridiron. Kickoff is at 3:30 o'clock.

The Orange and Black, displaying a good running game plus a lot of spirit, came through to earn a thrilling tie last week. They not only avenged last year's defeat at the paws of the Cats, but they proved they're not going to be the doormat of the conference.

The Wildcats struck first. With about three minutes gone in the first period, Quarterback Terry Ogden, filling in for the injured Chuck Stewart, flipped a 20-yard aerial to Halfback Ken Stryker for six points. Stryker went off tackle for the seventh marker.

The Huskies then took the kickoff on their own 30, and via the running of Don Santos, Frank Velarde and Allan Oik, drove to the Cat's goal, where Oik picked up the final two yards for the TD. Art Goularte added the extra point.

The Wildcats held a 13-7 halftime lead, as with two minutes remaining in the second period, the fleet-footed Stryker broke off tackle and rambled 45 yards to pay-dirt.

The Malemutes came back midway in the third period and tied the score at 13-13. Oik hit End Carl Von Euw with a 22-yard touchdown pass. Goularte's try for extra point went wide.

The Huskies' third score came after the kickoff as the Los Gatos club, after taking the ball on their 15, fumbled, and Von Euw pounced on the loose pigskin.

The locals moved the ball to the 7-yard line in four plays for a first down. The Cats' line held on the next two plays, but Dan Rodarte took a pitchout from Velarde and bulldozed his way into the end-zone. Goularte added the extra point.

The Cats picked up the tying touchdown just before the third period ended. Halfback Ken Spagnola skirted left end for 16 yards and a TD. Stryker scored the important extra point.

Neither team scored in the final period, although the Cats were on the Huskies' 13 when the game ended.

Velarde, with his deceptive running, and Von Euw with his fine defensive play, shone for the Huskies.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS FORESTALLED BY NILES MERCHANTS

A merchant-sponsored Halloween for Niles was approved Friday by the local Merchants' Committee.

Storekeepers will use washable "whiting" powder to cover their windows against the traditional depredations. They also will offer prizes for the best kid paintings on this harmless base.

So much was agreed at the committee session in Nello's. Chairman E. C. Parks said the whiting will be issued to several local merchants and distributed from them to everyone who wants to protect his windows from the goblins and witches.

Ted Tully and Theodore Economy were named committeemen to handle the project. The powder will be purchased by the committee.

Town cleanup and relocation of the Essanay sign were tabled until the next session.

Smog That Blackens Paint Blamed On San Jose Sewage in Bay Water

San Jose health experts this week blamed the recent paint-blackening "smog" that hit Washington Township on sewage contamination from Santa Clara County canneries.

The mysterious, smelly smog caused temporary spotting of paint on more than 100 homes in Newark and Centerville during a hot, sultry spell last month.

County Health Officer W. E. Turner set forth his findings in a report which climaxed a three-year study. He blamed the smell and chemical reaction on hydrogen sulfide, liberated by the sewage.

Said Dr. Turner's report:

"This three-year study has now shown definitely that the source of hydrogen sulfide is the bay area near Alviso. The solution to the problem lies in the construction of primary and secondary sewage treatment plants. As long as these sewage treatment plants are not constructed and put into operation, a large area of the county, including the San Jose-Santa Clara City area, will suffer from this yearly air pollution blight."

Two engineers were assigned to the probe three years ago, when complaints first started coming in from the San Jose suburbs.

A check of records showed that the complaints invariably came during the 10 to 12 weeks period coinciding with the peak of the canning season. This period is roughly from August to October.

Said the engineers:

"Concentration of hydrogen sulfide in the air was found to range from 0.1 parts per million to as high as 0.9 parts per million by volume."

Appearance of the smog in the Washington Township area is comparatively recent, and coincides with complaints from the west side of the Bay.

The report attributes growth of the affected area "to a greater degree of pollution in the Bay waters, to changing wind directions and slower wind velocities."

When San Jose's primary and secondary sewage treatment plants are placed in operation, Turner asserted, the problems should virtually disappear.

UNITES HERE FOR JOHN OLIVER, 74

Services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. from Chapel of the Palms for John Oliver, 74, who died Wednesday at his residence, 177 Parish Avenue, Centerville. Interment will be in Lone Tree Cemetery, Hayward, with Rev. T. Fuhr officiating.

Oliver was the husband of Eleanor Oliver; father of Herbert and Ronald Oliver, both of Oakland, Donald Oliver of Sunol, and Melvin Oliver of San Leandro; brother of Mrs. Isabel Russell of San Jose and Mrs. Rose Enos Silva of Niles. He was a native of Centerville.

Former carpenter here, he returned to the Township five months ago.

Seek Wreck Permit

An auto wrecking yard southeast of Wells avenue in Newark will be discussed for permit renewal October 19 by the County Planning Commission in Oakland.

The yard is at the east end of Wells extended, about 150 feet west of the railroad, and 200 feet east of Filbert.

A. J. Johnson and Anthony Silva are the yard operators seeking renewal of a permit which expired last December.

The whole show is run by a professional director, Miss Ruth Webb, who has been putting the amateurs through their paces for the past week.

Stars of the production, "On Stage America," will be Bill Helm, as interlocutor; and Mike Cimino and Gus Robertson as Amos 'n Andy.

Helm is a former showman himself. Robertson bosses Irvington Schools in his working BONDS WIN!

By a margin of eight votes, flood control bonds for the Southern end of Washington Township gained the necessary two-thirds majority yesterday.

The vote was 532 for the bonds and 254 against, in unofficial returns compiled last night.

At stake were $1,743,000 in bonds which will provide drainage and flood controls in Zone 6, comprising Irvington, Mission San Jose and Warm Springs.

By town, the vote ran: Irvington, 338 yes, 73 no; Mission, 129 yes, 119 no; Warm Springs, 65 yes, 62 no.

To the north, Zone 3-a, taking in Alvarado and Hillview Crest, appeared to have won by a safe margin.

Alvarado voted 157 yes, 24 no; Hillview voted 92 yes, 40 no.

Shopping Center For Mission S. J.?

Charles A. Russell, subdivider, hinted to the Mission San Jose Chamber of Commerce Monday night that he intends to build a "mission style" shopping center along the Irvington Road in the tract he recently developed.

Russell's hint came in a request that the chamber endorse commercial zoning for the area between Jerome and Vallejo Streets. The group was discussing further zoning plans started last week.

No action was taken. Another meeting with Alameda County planning officials will be held in the Mission School November 3.

Pipe Plant Ready

Starting next week, the Orangeburg Manufacturing Company will interview applicants for positions. Persons who have already submitted applications will be notified when to report for interview, according to W. P. Paulson, office manager. The plant expects to be in production shortly after November 1.

NILES C. OF C. REVISES TOWN ZONING; TO CONFER AGAIN

The Niles Chamber of Commerce got its first look at a proposed zoning map Tuesday—and promptly sent the map back to the County Planning Commission staff for some changes.

The suggested map was presented by Planning Director John Jay Thomas and Senior Planner Sanford Farness. Changes were asked before another conference on October 27. Then the amended plan will be presented for public discussion here.

The planners' map had shown (1) Old Town, at the southern outlet to town, zoned for industry, and (2) a belt north of the Kraft tile plant zoned for homes.

At the urging of C. W. Chrysler and Vernon Ellsworth, among others, Thomas agreed to "reconsider" and change the suggestions before the next meeting. Old Town then presumably will be zoned residential and the other area industrial.

Possible ground for controversy, according to some members, lies in a lack of commercial zoning along Highway 9. Farness defended this, saying highway business strips (except service stations, restaurants, and motels) are not only considered undesirable from a planning standpoint, but are growing less and less profitable to their owners.

The map showed residential zones much as they now exist; a business district extended to Third Street between G and I Streets; a park along Alameda Creek; and light industry south of Alameda Creek around the railroads.

Farness also suggested the Chamber decide soon on whether it wants to limit lot-sizes.

The Chamber several weeks ago adopted a "master plan" for the town, embodying the broad general principles shown in the new map.

'Valley Bank Race

Central Valley Banks, including the Newark Branch, are beginning a contest among employees with the goal of having $34,000,000 in resources by the time the bank celebrates its fifth birthday in September, 1954.

Employees will score by obtaining new accounts, Christmas savings, safety deposit boxes, new or increased loans, new or increased stock holders.

Central Valley has 11 branches since C. P. Partridge established the first one in Richmond four years ago. The Newark branch opened last January 6.

S/FC John Trembley, Army recruiter, will be in the Centerville Post Office Wednesdays between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to inform local youths of opportunities in the Army and Air Force.

COOKING SCHOOL INSTRUCTORS ARE REAL EXPERTS

Two top-notch homemaking experts will run the Washington Township Cooking and Freezer School here October 28 and 29.

The gas and electric cooking school will be conducted by Esther Drell Day, noted home economist, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, October 28 and 29, at Washington Union High School. Mrs. Day is division home economist for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, and a graduate of Texas State College for Women.

During World War II she was area nutrition and canteen chairman for the American Red Cross. She has conducted cooking schools in various parts of the State for newspapers, fairs, home shows, homemaker clubs and public schools.

Her background in the field of home economics includes 11 years of experience with utility companies' demonstrations and schools.

The Freezer School will be conducted by Mrs. Ann E. Cook, district home economist for the International Harvester Company, who has had a world of experience in this field. She will cover the preparation of food to be put in the home freezer and also how to cook food that has been carefully preserved in the home freezer over long periods of time. The economy and convenience of home freezers will be carefully explained.

Mrs. Cook is a graduate of Judson College, Marion, Alabama, with a degree in home economics. She also took graduate work in home economics at the University of Tennessee and later was an instructor in home economics at both high school and college levels. She has been associated with International Harvester Company for four and a half years and covers all of Northern California.

The Suez Canal was opened to traffic November 17, 1869.

SUZY SEZ...

How do your window shades look? Here in Orchard Park windows are unusually wide, but I have found that if I purchase oilcloth in the fifty-four-inch width, I can use two yards lengthwise on the roller, and have new, washable, colorful window shades. Hem the bottom for the stick, and carefully punch a hole for the cord, then glue the edges of the cloth, and it will not tear around the pull.

Well, that time is here again, and you will be asked to contribute to the United Crusade drive. Donate all you can for the worthy cause, and remember, it's deductible.

Have you planted winter flower seeds yet? Better hurry, it will soon be too late to expect blooms before April. A row of sweet peas will be attractive against the back fence, and provide cut flowers for indoor use.

Halloween is coming. Now is the time to start a campaign to see that your children do not do any damage or dangerous mischief. Plan a teen-age scavenger hunt, or old-fashioned apple-ducking type party for all ages.

Try keeping canned soups on hand for emergencies. For example, just last Sunday, when unexpected company arrived, I added spices, and onion to a large can of tomato soup, plus a half pound of ground beef, and had a quick and tasty spaghetti on the table in half an hour.

This year, instead of just mak-

ASK CENTERVILLE TRAFFIC FOLLO-UP

A follow-up on requested traffic safety regulations in Centerville was demanded Monday by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Eugene Manning, chairman of a safety committee, successfully sought a letter to the Board of Supervisors asking that parking be regulated at the Fremont Avenue curve just east of Main Street and that a street light be installed at Fremont and Santos Road, and stop signs at Baine Avenue and Blacow Road.

President Romeo Brunelli noted that earlier letters had borne results, inasmuch as the State and County plan to place stop lights at Thornton Avenue and Main Street and at Machado's Corner, north of town.

LeRoy Broun, advocate of township incorporation, commented that "all these problems could be solved by a city council," using State gas tax refunds.

Manning warned that diagonal parking is permitted east of Fremont and Main, and suggested photos be made to back up the chamber protest against trucks unloading out into traffic there.

ing promises to yourself, try attending the P.T.A. meetings at your youngster's school. Then when the end of the year comes around, you won't belong to the group that always complains about the lack of projects completed.

If you are upset by your one or two children, consider the Township mother of seven who says after the fifth child you're numb by the end of the day, every day. In fact, she says, it is easier with seven than with two, or five. Now they fight with each other, and never with her!

Memories Haunt Historic Ruins of Gallegos Winery

By STUART NIXON

They're planning another subdivision at Irvington, this time to cover the ruins of the old brick winery on the Mission Road.

Within a year, there'll be no trace of a Township landmark whose foundations reach deep into hemisphere history, as deep as a last Viceroy of Colonial Spain; a building which helped ruin the man who wanted to transform Southern Washington Township into another Burgundy or Champagne.

The winery cost a million hard silver dollars when Don Juan de Gallegos built it in 1881. Don Juan made his fortunes in coffee, lost them in the more potent brews he distilled on the sunny slopes of Mission San Jose. Yet the memory of what he tried to do lingers in the Township.

The story begins almost 150 years ago. Don Juan's father, Jose Rafael de Gallegos, noble and gifted, was sent by King Carlos of Spain to govern the colony of Costa Rica, in Central America.

Jose Rafael must have had a capacity for making friends, for when Costa Rica declared her independence from Spain, he was elected the republic's president in 1833.

Happy and prosperous, he lived on his broad estates, rearing several sons, all of whom were sent to school in England. As scions of a ruling house, they were accepted in the highest circles. Even as playmates for Queen Victoria's son, the young Prince of Wales, later Edward VII.

Home in Costa Rica, one son, Juan, of whom we write, married beautiful Julia Monteleagre, daughter of still another Costa Rican president.

Now came one of the periodic upheavals of Central American policies, and one of Juan's uncles — also a former president — was executed in the revolution.

"I refuse to raise my family in such a country," he declared. So taking Julia and her father, who was a physician by trade, he boarded ship for San Francisco, arriving in 1872.

One assumes Don Juan did not leave until he had tidied up the financial odds-and-ends. The family settled on a large lot on Sutter Street, built a house, and pastured a cow there. Seven children were born. Father meantime made frequent trips to another Central American republic, Guatemala, where he owned a 25,000-acre coffee plantation. So well did this produce, and so profitably did his other financial ventures turn out, that friends credited him with the Midas touch.

Soon the handsome, mustached son of the Viceroy was looking for a ranch in California where he could try his luck with the soil. After casting about Monterey, he decided on the 5000-acre Beard Ranch, which stretched between the Bay and Mission Peak, and from Mission San Jose to Warm Springs. This was about 1878. Don Juan de Gallegos bought the ranch for $30 an acre from San Francisco's German Bank.

The sleepy Mission countryside was transformed overnight. Don Juan's energy knew no bounds. He planted 600 acres in vines, covered the slopes between Irvington and Mission San Jose with Zinfandel and Muscat plantings. He remodeled the Beard house at Mission, installed swimming pools and a fountain whose 60-foot spout could be seen down the Niles Road. He bought race horses and prize Jersey cows, raced the horses in New York and showed the cows at Sacramento.

And he started the winery. It was to be the grandest one in California, Don Juan vowed. And so it was. Solid brick on the upper three stories, native fieldstone below. Joined hardwood floors like the deck of a ship. The pressings from his vines went into aged oaken hogsheads on the top floor, trickled via pipes downward until properly aged.

Gallegos wines and Gallegos brandies began to acquire a reputation. The labels were known in the East, in Europe. Don Juan and his French winemaster, Ponderdorff, rejoiced.

Then disaster struck. And disaster multiplied on disaster. First the terrible phylloxera virus hit the vines, and they withered as though scorched by fire. A wooly blight enveloped the roots, and they were gone.

IRVINGTON'S PRIDE—This million-dollar brick winery—ruins of which still may be seen at bottom of Irvington-Mission grade, was built by Don Juan de Gallegos in early 1880's, withstood 1906 earthquake, but was so weakened it had to be pulled down. In its day, it was the finest winery in California.

Then the last shipment of wine soured enroute to New York—or so the brokers told Gallegos. The shipment was dumped—a chartered boatload-full.

Finally it appeared that a trusted superintendent had diverted brandy taxes to his own pocket, and Gallegos had to make good the money—and an $85,000 legal bill into the bargain.

The last blow was too crushing. Don Juan was forced to sell his barony, first a little here and then a little more there. On the balance he planted prune trees. He held the home at the end of Olive Avenue, then a beautiful vista from Irvington to the Mission highway. And he kept another home beside Mill Creek, east of Vallejo Street. It was there that he fell down a flight of stairs in 1905, and it was there that he died a few days later.

Don Juan's death mercifully prevented him from seeing the destruction of his beautiful winery. The 1906 earthquake crumpled the supports, buckled the oak floors, made it unsafe to operate—if anyone had wanted to. So it was sold to Henry Lachman, a wealthy San Franciscan, who tore it down, sold the bricks and the cooperage, the barrels for which Gallegos had paid $100,000.

Donna Julia lived on in the Vallejo Street house until 1928, when she too died at 72.

Three of Don Juan's offspring still live in Mission San Jose: his son Robert, and his two daughters, Teresa and Sophie (Mrs. George Dickey).

Newcomers idly eye the massive brick ruins where Durham

Avenue crosses the Mission-Irvington Road. Soon even these shattered monuments to Don Juan de Gallegos will vanish, just like his blooded horses, his pedigreed livestock, his lordly carriages, and his dreams of a gentle Old World empire in a new land.

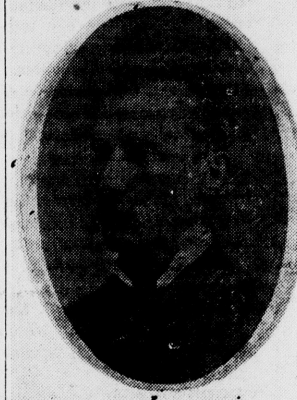

NEW PASTOR NOW AT LOCAL CHURCH

MISSION SAN JOSE By REGINA SCHNEIDER

MRS. MARGARET PHILLIPS was hostess in her home on October 6. An enjoyable evening was had by Lena Haughton, Grace Veith, Josephine Chambers, Ellen Thompson, Lois Bottenberg, Hortense Cunha, Irma Vargas and Sally Souza.

MR. and MRS. MANUEL SILVA and son of San Francisco were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Silva.

WE ARE looking forward to an eventful week-end here in Mission San Jose. Friday evening, the Catholic Daughters of America will have a whist party at IDES Hall. The Firemen's Annual dance will be on Saturday at IDES Hall. (Let's all try to make it a huge success as it will mean help in getting a new fire house, which is badly needed in our town.) Sunday, on the beautiful grounds of the Sisters of the Holy Family, Our Lady of Fatima will be honored. This beautiful tradition attracted thousands last year.

EVERLYN SPENCE has been under the doctor's care for an infected tooth.

STANLEY PHILLIPS has been hobbling around after stepping on a nail while working at the Dominican Convent.

MR. and MRS. JOE AZEVEDO spent the week-end in Citrus Heights as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Burt.

THE MOTHERS' CLUB had a pot-luck supper on Saturday night honoring the new teachers. Betty Santos was chairman for the evening.

OUR LIBRARIAN Mrs. Rose Recend, told me that business has picked up since the new tracts were built. Also that there are now many new books in our library.

MR. and MRS. BOB BROWN, accompanied by Bob's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown of Newark, drove to Lou's Village on Friday evening where the Browns of Newark celebrated their 28th wedding anniversary.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. and Mrs. Al Andrade. They have a new addition to their family. Donna was born on October 12 at the San Jose Hospital, weighing 9 pounds and 9 ounces. The Andrades also have two boys and another girl.

MR. and MRS. A. C. SANTOS and Miss Freddie Howard of Sacramento were week-end guests of Mrs. Rose Recend.

DUANE HILL was elected president of the new Mission San Jose Youth Center on Tuesday evening. James Hill is vice-president, Nadine Millard is treasurer, and Jean Saatz is secretary. Plans were made for a dance to be held at IDES Hall on October 24.

MR. and MRS. JOE ABREU had a two-day visit from Joe Maciel of San Jose this week. Sunday, the Abreus, accompanied by friends, motored to Watsonville, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Silveria.

Sportsmen Shoot

Members of the Niles Sportsmen's Club will hold their annual Turkey Shoot on the club range November 15, according to Pres. William Pine.

Bottled Larkspurs
Bottles, old and new, offer unusual variations for your flower arrangements.

Perhaps you have an empty perfume bottle you hate to part with. If so, make use of it and some short - stemmed larkspurs and tiny asters for an attractive flower arrangement. Fill a clear glass hobnail perfume bottle with pink colored water; add your flowers and you have a pretty decorative touch for your bedroom.

Before you forget, why not get out in your garden now and plant plenty of flowers for floral arrangements next season. If you have trouble with clay soil, a good soil conditioner, such as Krilium, will help your larkspurs grow.

Larkspur colors include violet, rose, pink, white and blue. Larkspur is the common name for the annual species of Delphinium.

The above was prepared by Mary Hazel Drummond, author of "Styling Coriages with Garden Flowers."

Our Huskies Tie Los Gatos; Point For James Lick

Tomorrow's contest, between Washington and the Comets, could be rated a tossup if it were not for Lick's Benny Guzman, an all-SCVAL back last year. This year he is rated the best back in the league. He gained more than 200 yards rushing in a game against El Cerrito last fall.

Washington Head Coach Clyde Voorhees figures if the Huskies can stop Guzman, they can lick the Comets.

Score by quarters:

Washington	7	6	7	0
Los Gatos	13	0	7	0

Pups Triumph, 26-6, Over 'Gatos Bs As Hird Completes 12 for 17 Passes

Coach Harold Gene Johnson's B eleven got off to a good start in the SCVAL race last Friday night, as they whacked the Los Gatos Bs to the tune of 26-6.

It was a big victory for the Puppies, since they lost to the Gatos Bs last year in the last game of the season, and with it lost their chance for a co-championship.

The Puppies took the opening kickoff and marched 75 yards for the first score of the game. Quarterback Bob Hird pitched out to Fullback Tino Rangel, who passed 12 yards to Left End Art Anchondo for the score. John Adams added the extra point.

The Junior Huskies' second tally came with three seconds life in the first half. With the ball on the 2-yard line, Hird jump-passed to End Ray Orozco for the touchdown just as the gun sounded. Adams missed the conversion.

The Puppies' third score came midway in the third period when Halfback Ernie Soto climaxed a 50-yard drive as he went off tackle for six yards. Rangel missed the try.

The young Huskies' final score came with two minutes remaining in the game, as Hird, who completed 12 out of 17 tosses, threw a 20-yard pass to Soto in the end zone for the six points. Adams' conversion was good.

The Puppies face the James Lick Comet Bs this afternoon with kickoff set for 3:30.

BEARCATS LAND ON SAN LEANDRO NINE, WIN 14-2

By TONY ROGERS

Opening the East Oakland Winter League season last Sunday, the Centerville Bearcats walloped a San Leandro nine, Guy's Drugs, by the lopsided score of 14-2.

Gaining the upper hand in the first innings, the 'Cats went on to win in a walk. They drove Starting Pitcher Joe Swanson from the mound with a batting barrage in the second inning, and kept his relievers in trouble the rest of the way.

Frank Romero fanned 10 batters, while scattering 10 hits. Mel Nunes led the locals with a double and three singles, smashing in three runs.

Next Sunday, the Bearcats travel to San Leandro to clash with Ben Begier's Auto baserunners in an 11 a.m. contest.

BUCS, PANTHERS MAINTAIN PACE

The first week of SCVAL play is over and only two teams, Campbell and Santa Clara, emerged with clean slates. Washington and Los Gatos played to a 20-20 tie and Fremont defeated Santa Cruz 31-7, in a non-league tilt.

The Buccaneers from Campbell, pre-season choice to capture the SCVAL flag, turned back Mountain View, 26-7. Santa Clara posted a 13-0 win over James Lick.

This week's SCVAL football schedule:

Fremont - Campbell
Washington - James Lick
Mt. View - Santa Clara
Los Gatos - (Open)

Japanese Americans To Hold Barbecue

The Southern Alameda County JACL is planning a "Harvest Barbecue" to honor the Nisei growers whose farm products brought top honors to this county's vegetable display at the California State Fair at Sacramento this year.

The steak barbecue will be held at the Alameda County Fair grounds at Pleasanton, on October 16 from 6:30 p.m.

County and state fair prizes will be awarded to the winning entrants, according to the chairman of the event, Ray Kitayama of Alvarado.

Committee members include: Ray and Kiyo Kitayama, general arrangements; Yutaka Handa, Sat Sekigahama, Hisako Yamanaka and Setsu Umemoto, refreshments; Dorothy Kato, program; Don Takizawa and Hideo Katsumoto, finance; and Aki Kato, invitations.

DUAL PLEA FOR INCENTIVE SYSTEM HERE

Two top business executives made urgent appeals for a return to the "incentive" system here last week.

Rilea W. Doe, vice-president of Safeway Stores Inc., told the Men's Club of Washington Township on Thursday night:

"For years we've been deliberately misled about business in this country. The businessman has been the whipping-boy for government profligacy. And yet the hope of the free world today is so-called Big Business."

Doe said the average net profit of all large businesses is two per cent on sales, yet many Americans believe it runs as high as 50 per cent—"and that there's something illegitimate about it."

Doe said the Dupont Corporation built the Atom Bomb and charged the government only $1 for it—yet was rewarded with an anti-trust suit. He urged citizens to appeal to their Congressmen to see that high taxes don't destroy incentive in this country.

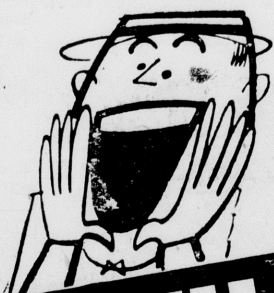

Richard L. Rosenthal, 38-year-old president of the Citizens Utilities Company, told the Niles Rotary Club:

"The system of 'progressive' taxation is destructive of the incentive system that made our nation great."

Rosenthal explained high taxes are "driving risk capital underground — or into tax-exempt bonds." He urged a speedy end to such "refuges," to restore money to normal channels of investment.

Stressing that "the top 10 per cent of our taxpayers pay only two billions of our taxes," Rosenthal termed false the theory that current income taxes are "a rich man's tax," and said they hit the ordinary wage-earner much harder than the wealthy man. He hailed a reported effort by Treasury Secretary George Humphrey to revamp the tax structure, and urged his listeners to tell their Congressmen to support the try.

We've got something to shout about!

Newark to Nairobi - The Snow Story

By STUART NIXON

Few Newarkers know their town produced the granddaddy of the African travelogue.

It's true, all the same. This remarkable man was a humble stove-moulder when he began. Before he died, he was a household hero to half the homes in America. More than 100 tons of African wildlife, enough to populate a dozen museums, fell to his deadly express rifles. His films were shown in every city in the nation.

It all started with a bird's egg collection, something a boy might keep in a bureau drawer.

The collector was Henry Adelbert ("Dell") Snow, Newark stove moulder, contractor, auto agent, baseball promoter, but above all a museum fan. Dell Snow's obsession for collecting lighted the Dark Continent for Americans before Martin Johnson, Trader Horn, or Humphrey Bogart. Yes, he lived in Newark, reared his family here, yearned to return here all his life.

Born in Santa Cruz in 1870, Dell Snow collected seagull's eggs when most youngsters were trading marbles. He tried every sort of job, from enlisting in the Army at 16 to running a restaurant in Los Angeles. Then he came to Newark in 1895 to work for the James Graham Manufacturing Company. He chose Newark because his brother, Fred, was stationmaster here.

The next year Dell met and married pretty Daisy Langan, a pert San Francisco colleen, who was caring for a sick woman in Irvington.

Dell and Daisy had their ups and downs. He caught malaria on a gold-prospecting junket in 1903, found it hard to work in the heat of the stove factory. So he went into the lively stable business, ran the stable from their home on Railroad Avenue, just east of Ash. He promoted a formidable base-

In 1919, nature-struck Dell Snow of Newark had more irons in the fire than a blacksmith at a weenie roast.

He was running a contracting business, a real estate-and-insurance agency, a garage, a baseball team and a museum. He was traveling around the State collecting eagles, sealions and bird's eggs for himself and for museums in San Francisco and Oakland.

One might have thought Dell Snow had his hands full. But still he wanted something more: to photograph and collect wild animals in Africa. Ever since 1910, when the big Newarker saw the crude efforts of a British movie-maker, he had hankered to visit the Dark Continent.

In 1919, he bent his powerful sales talents to sell the idea to ball team that played the Essanay Indians from Niles, once defeated the Coast League champion Seals in a memorable post-season match on the Newark diamond west of his home.

He ran the Township's first garage and auto agency, still standing on the corner of Main and Parish in Centerville. And he built the first approach to the Dumbarton Bridge, using horses and drags, a marvel in those days.

As Dell's sons say, he was a marvel himself. Two inches over six feet tall, he generally weighed about 240 pounds. And every pound was a fury of energy. "I used to call him 'the pirate,'" says Daisy Snow.

Dell Snow might have been successful in contracting, or auto sales. But his riding interest was still wildlife. In a little concrete office, still standing on Railroad Avenue, he assembled his egg collection, added to it every summer by trips to inaccessible parts of the state, until it numbered 100,000 items. In his back yard, he kept huge pens of fancy pigeons, pheasants, turkeys. Folks came for miles to see Dell Snow's creatures.

Backyard aviaries soon grew too tame for the burly Newarker. About 1910 he read the exploits of the British explorer, Paul Rainey, saw Rainey's crude attempts to depict on movie film the teaming jungle and veldt life of Africa. "I've got to go there," Dell Snow would say. In no time at all, he did.

a group of Oakland capitalists: Roscoe Cole and the Gross brothers, George and Charles. They invested $50,000 to form African Film Corporation... They were to get back $8 for every dollar they put up.

Dell's wife, Daisy, was ill. She recalls Dell used to come to her room in an Oakland hospital and sit with her, polishing his rifle and talking about Africa. Finally, in December, he sailed with his son Sid, 21, leaving Mrs. Snow to follow when her health permitted.

Landing in Capetown, the two Snows made their way north by oxcart through Rhodesia and Kenya to Abyssinia, filming scenery as they went. At first they hired a British guide, but Dell and the Englishman disagreed somewhere near the Equator and they parted. The guide predicted a lurid fate for the amateur safari.

But Dell Snow was as much at home in the jungle or veldt as he was in his pheasant pens on Railroad Avenue. And when his hired cameraman quit, young Sid carried on at the crank. It was a family affair from then out.

Dell Snow was 49, but he toiled like a longshoreman. He walked 20 miles a day in search of wildlife to film, or shoot. He re-contracted his old complaint, malaria, and went down from 240 pounds to 180. But he kept going, taking pictures and shooting lion, leopard, rhino, elephant, hippo, gazelle and antelope, buffalo—everything that stalked or ran over the broad African plains. At the end, he had bagged 63 complete groups of different beasts, an impressive total in tonnage alone.

Late that year, Mrs. Snow and her five-year-old daughter, Norma, joined Dell at Mombasa. They went on to Nairobi. Nearby Dell had rented a 20-room house for a "base camp."

Little Norma had been ill too. But she made the rugged safaris into the bush without a sick day, her mother says. As the Snow party penetrated deeper into the heart of Africa, Norma often was the first white child the natives had seen. They came miles to admire her blonde hair.

As Norma, now Mrs. Earl Willburn of 1370 Railroad Avenue, recalls it:

"I learned 16 native dialects from the native children. 'Sometimes we'd get game half a block from camp. Once when Dad shot and skinned an elephant, I stood on the heart, and it was as big as a pillow.'"

Dell Snow seldom needed more than a single shot from his .405 Winchester or his .577 express rifle to kill even a charging elephant, his daughter says. A youth spent in the outdoors had sharpened his eye and his wits to the point where Africa held no terrors for him.

VAN SCOY JOINS JEWELRY FIRM

Edgar A. Van Scoy, well known to residents of Washington Township as the former owner of Van Scoy Jewelers, has associated himself with his successors, Michael's Credit Jewelers of Centerville.

Van Scoy will immediately take over the watch and jewelry repair department of Michael's Store in Centerville and will manage the soon-to-be-launched Newark store of Michael's Credit Jewelers on its opening date in the near future. Van Scoy urges his friends and customers to come in, renew old friendships, and to take advantage of his personalized and competent repair services.

There are 6832 hospitals in the United States.

In the spring of 1922, the Snow family of Railroad Avenue, Newark, was established by a waterhole 100 miles northwest of Nairobi, Central Africa.

Dynamic, king-size Dell Snow was realizing a youthful dream: to take his rifle and movie camera into the heart of the Dark Continent. Armed with a commission to collect specimens for the Oakland Museum and the Academy of Natural Sciences in San Francisco (and with $50,000 raised by Oakland capitalists) he was finishing a two-year trek.

With Dell Snow was his spunky wife, Daisy, and their children, Sid, 22, and Norma, 5. Norma now is Mrs. Earl Willburn of Newark.

"We traveled in a stripped-down Model-T," recalls Mrs. Willburn. "The natives would go on ahead with the gasoline."

"We ate meat and meal and dried onions. Sometimes we would run across a British commissioner, and he would give us a few vegetables."

"Safari ants drove us out of more than one camp. The hyenas chewed up our cooking utensils for the grease. I'll never forget it."

Famed Martin Johnson was the first outsider to realize what Dell Snow's expedition meant. Johnson was in Nairobi, taking pictures of native dances, when the Snows blew into town with the trophies Dell had shot, and the film Sid had taken and developed enroute.

Snow ran off a few rushes for Johnson. The anthropologist's eyes popped when he saw, for the first time on any screen, lions killing their prey, hippos wallowing in a river, wounded elephant and rhino charging a camera. Johnson and his wife, Osa, promptly decided to engage a safari and get into this new type of gold-mine.

The Snows meantime went to Mombasa and embarked for Oakland, via Suez, France, England and New York. In Oakland, there was a great reception. Word of Dell's trek had preceded him. He was famous. The films were sold to a Hollywood company. They played all over the world, grossing $4,500,000 on their first run, despite competition from the late-comer Johnsons. Their title: "Hunting Big Game in Africa with Gun & Camera."

Dell and his family traveled with the films, making personal appearances everywhere. In 1924, the wanderlust hit him again. He went to Alaska and icy Wrangel Island, 400 miles from the pole, to shoot and film polar bears.

In cooperation with the Mayor of Oakland, Snow established the Snow Museum of Natural History, still standing beside Lake Merritt. In an old mansion, he set up some of the 63 animal groups he had shot. They have attracted as many as 100,000 visitors a year.

Snow gave the city the entire collection for $1, with the proviso it be housed in a modern fireproof building. That was 30 years ago, and the city hasn't built one yet. Most of the lion and antelope skins, the rhino and hippo hides, and one complete elephant are still in mothballs, deep in the cellars of the cluttered old museum.

Now Snow was nearing the end of his physical resources. Worn and tired, he built a 30-foot trailer, traveled to Mexico to collect animals. He started another film, on the life of State Lion Hunter Jay Bruce. He needed three business managers to look after his multiplying affairs.

But the years of hard work in Africa, the recurrent malaria, now demanded their toll. In 1925, his stout heart suffered a severe setback. Dell became a semi-invalid, confined most of the time to his rooms at the Oakland museum. In 1927 he died.

Dell left a great heritage, all the same. He brought the breath of adventure to the East Bay, left a museum to fascinate three generations of its school children. Dell's own children inherited

NILES' TURN FOR FREE TB X-RAYS

A three-day minifilm chest x-ray survey will be conducted in Niles this week as part of the current TB detection program in Washington Township.

The project is under the sponsorship of the Alameda County Health Department and the Alameda County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

From Thursday, October 15, through Saturday, October 17, the Christmas Seal X-ray truck of the TB Association will be in Niles to give free minifilm chest x-rays to persons 15 years of age and over. Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Serving as Niles chairman for the project is Postmaster Edward Enos.

No appointments are necessary for the chest x-rays which are provided without charge as a public service made possible by the TB Association's annual Christmas Seal Sale. Results are confidential and persons x-rayed are advised by mail as to the outcome of their examinations.

something from their father too—an interest in nature: Sid now is director of the Alameda County Zoo in Joaquin Miller Park, which his father founded; Nydine Snow Latham is curator of the Snow Museum; and Homer won fame as one of the nation's foremost animal trainers. He currently runs a delightful seal-and-pelican show for kiddies at Oakland Fairyland.

Only Norma failed to follow the family trend. Maybe it was all those lions and leopards when she was five. Anyway, she tells you—in the family home on Railroad Avenue, where she returned to live 18 years ago:

"I won't tolerate a cat on the place."

It costs much more to add telephones today

Buying and building the facilities needed to put new telephones to work now costs more than double what it did in the prewar period.

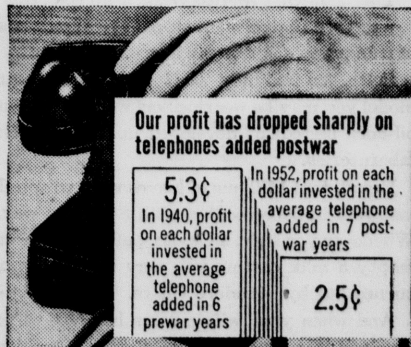

YOUR TELEPHONE'S NUMBER ONE ENEMY

How rising costs put a real burden on good service

Surprisingly, it isn't fire or storm or earthquake... your telephone's biggest problem today is the rising costs of the things we buy to provide telephone service—coupled with low telephone rates which have increased much less than the cost of the things we buy to run the system. New techniques and improved equipment have helped greatly to cut operating costs. But the pressure of high prices is unrelenting. And, since a financially healthy telephone system is so important to good service for you, we believe you'd like to be brought up-to-date on your telephone's biggest problem.

Up sharply are our costs of keeping the system running. Operating taxes, for example, have almost doubled—from $10 per telephone in 1940 to nearly $20 in 1952. Average wage rates of telephone people are more than double what they were in 1940. In fact, nearly everything we must buy to keep your telephone on the job costs about twice what it did prewar.

With our costs up so much more than our prices, the profit on the investment in facilities for each new telephone has been cut in half. And this is important to your service because it takes profits to attract investors' savings into the business to pay for new facilities needed to meet the continuing telephone demands of the growing Pacific West.

Despite our higher costs of building and running the telephone system, the economies we've made have helped keep your telephone a bargain. It carries your messages for just pennies a call.

DECOTO TEACHERS PASS IN FIRST AID

Forty employees of the Decoto School District last week received certificates in first aid.

Decoto trustees ruled all teachers must receive first-aid instruction, following a recommendation by William S. Davis, board member, that the district adopt a "safety first" program. This gave Decoto the distinction of being one of the few districts in the state to be one hundred per cent certificated.

Alfred Pinard, district child welfare and attendance officer and recreation director, instructed the program along with S. Robert Infelise, principal of the Hillview Crest School. Both Pinard and Infelise received their instruction under the direction of Dale Roe, area Red Cross director.

Listed are the district employees receiving their credentials: Mrs. Gladys Gause, Mrs. Winifred Klymshyn, Thomas Scarff, Boyd Morningstar, Mrs. Ruth Laverty, Mrs. Veronica Boughn, Mrs. Constance Amaral, Joe Monte de Rey, Margaret Robinson, Mrs. Blanche Kuykendall, Mrs. Bert Van Noy.

WARM SPRINGS HOT OVER PIG RANCH

Investigation of conditions at a Warm Springs hog ranch was demanded last week by the Warm Springs Chamber of Commerce, following vigorous protests lodged with the civic body.

A letter asking the probe from the Alameda County Health Department was authorized after C. B. Devore and his wife, Lyda, of Landing Road, had protested "blow flies, gnats, filth and smells."

Devore charged that "trucks carrying cannery waste during the day and night" are dumping their contents at the hog farm. Mrs. Devore said that following her protest spray trucks came to the area but no appreciable improvement resulted.

"Why should the taxpayers pay for spraying his place?" she demanded.

"A situation such as this should not exist in a community where home development is pending," Chamber President Charles Venturi declared. He also recalled that the chamber had vainly protested the granting of the permit for the hog farm in 1950.

HIGH SCHOOL 'HOP' SET FOR NOV. 13

"Guys and Dolls," a social committee at Washington Union High School, will stage a dance at the school following the football game with Campbell High School on November 13.

The temescal, or sweathouse, used by California Indians, was the State's earliest form of hospital.

HOSPITAL ASKS PROTECTIVE ZONE

Directors of the Washington Township Hospital District have told Attorney E. A. Quaresma to request that land around the proposed $1,250,000 community hospital on Santos Road be restricted against industry close by.

L. S. Whitaker, chairman of the hospital trustees, announced Quaresma will make the appeal to the Alameda County Planning Commission.

The hospital was approved by Washington Township voters a year ago, and bids are slated to be called in January.

The hospital is designed for 65 beds, and will be the only one between Hayward and San Jose.

It lies a scant half-mile from both Western Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads, and thus is in a potential industrial area, Whitaker explained.

SCHOOL FETES FOR DECOTO HALLOWEEN

"Safe-and-Sane" school-sponsored Halloween celebrations have been scheduled for the 1400 children in the Decoto Elementary School District, Dr. Harold Schoenfeld, district superintendent, announces.

Youngsters through the third grade will have costume parades, motion picture shows and room parties on October 30. Parents will be asked to keep these children at home, or accompany them, during the Saturday events planned for older children.

During the day of October 31, all three playgrounds at the Decoto, Barnard and Hillview Schools will remain open. At 7 p.m. there will be simultaneous carnivals at the Hillview Crest and Decoto Schools, with Barnard School pupils attending one or the other.

The early evening program will include motion pictures, carnival attractions and Halloween stunts, with dancing to 11 p.m., to close the festivities.

IT'S YOUR LOOKOUT

Once more Washington Township is responding to the United Crusade appeal. Townshippers will contribute more than $40,000 before the drive ends late this month. The money couldn't be better spent.

Thirteen thousand of those dollars will come back to us through the Community Chest agencies alone. Thousands more will be returned through Red Cross and a dozen kindred organizations. Still other thousands will benefit us indirectly through operation of county-wide services, and national health-and-research movements, such as the Cancer and Heart funds. The "united" aspect cuts down on the time and expense involved in individual collections, and as such is doubly welcome.

In an age when government has assumed so many functions formerly reserved to individuals, it is healthy to note that avenues of action still are open to the individual. One of the most important of these avenues is the United Crusade. Support of the Crusade will insure that our funds will be administered as the givers want them, and will retain kindness and unselfishness in the place where kindness and unselfishness belong—in the hands of you and I.

THE NEW APPROACH

We can't lay claim to being an oracle on Abyssinia or an expert on Afghanistan, but it seems to us that the foreign affairs of the U. S. government are looking up nowadays, compared to a year ago.

Gradually, and without fuss, the Truman-Acheson policy of mere "containment" of Communist aggression has been replaced by a more positive approach under Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

In Germany, our support of Chancellor Adenauer has strengthened the hand of anti-Communists and at last brings promise that something will be made of the European Defense program. Our positive action in Berlin before, during and after the June anti-Red riots shows that at last we have reached the hearts of those behind the Iron Curtain. And in Spain, we recently won air bases which will help make any aggressor think twice before attacking.

In the Middle East, our refusal to horse-trade with Mossadegh helped the Iranians throw out that tearful dictator, replaced him with a government more friendly to the West. And Dulles' firm stand on the Suez question appears at last to have forced a British-Egyptian settlement which lessens the threat of conflict there.

Even in Asia, which a year ago had been written-off to the Reds through our bungling and reluctance, things look brighter. The truce in Korea hasn't disarmed the potential time-bomb there. But it has given us an opportunity to explore other fields in our belated attempts to woo the Orient away from Moscow. Dulles' refusal to reject Syngman Rhee, a courageous if heavy-handed anti-Communist, places us in a firm position. Our intent cannot be misinterpreted by the growing mass of Asians who are turning against Russian rule.

In Indo-China, too, where things looked darkest a few months ago, our pressure on France to promise self-rule to the Indo-Chinese has revived the spark of resistance against the Red invaders.

Truman and Acheson stopped short of active diplomacy against the Reds, and this cost us dearly. Containment isn't enough: if we want peace-through-strength, we must also work to undermine insidious Soviet influence in a hundred nooks and crannies around the world.

This is what Eisenhower and Dulles know, and this is what they are working for. Already that work is beginning to pay off, and it may be that the tide has begun to turn our way.

RECOGNITION FOR CALIFORNIA

Elevation of Governor Warren to the highest judicial post in our land brings Californians the proud knowledge that three of our sons have recently succeeded to key positions in the national picture, positions which used to be reserved principally for Eastern or Mid-Western men.

With Chief Justice Warren in the highest councils of America are Vice-President Nixon, now Mr. Eisenhower's personal "eye" on a world-wide inspection tour; and Senator William F. Knowland, Senate majority leader.

Sectionalism aside, it's gratifying to know that these fellow Californians have been chosen to lead our nation, and that recognition now is coming in full measure to her second most-populous State.

MYSTERY MAN WAS BORN HERE IN '65

Last week's subject was Bain Leask, Niles grocer; and all Bain's friends guessed it, and it cost him a little money at the Rotary Club too. This week's Mystery Man may prove to be no mystery to old-time Townshippers. Then again, he may. We give you his autobiography in his own words. If you want the answer, look on an inside page.

"This is not of ramblers or rovers, but of grass roots.

"I was born in Washington Township in 1865, and have lived on the place where I was born ever since.

"I was educated in the one-room Niles-Centerville School, which was opposite the present County Building. The trigger-tempered teacher took the kinks out of me with a rawhide. When I was 15 and had learned the 3 Rs and had mastered the intricacies of 'sums', I quit and went home to work on the farm. With the accent on work.

"Then a farmer's day was from sunrise to set. The daily wage was one dollar, with eats, but we could buy many things with the dollar.

"The drifting icy fogs of spring-time and summer heat filled with mosquitoes and gnats were tough on man and beast. There was no mechanical power on the farm, and everything moved by the Armstrong method.

"I traveled extensively in those days—behind a single plow, harrow or hay rake—and no speed laws. My specialty was harness breaking wild mustangs for farmers and I ran a miniature rodeo sometimes, with the neighbors coming over to the paddock to see the fun.

"I managed a grain elevator in Centerville for five years. For many years my father held an important position here, covering the two townships. My wife was from Virginia City, born there in the bonanza days of Ralston and Mackay, but still spry and active today. We have a daughter and two sons, living now in San Francisco.

"I used to take my vacation in the mining country, and have been in every important mine from the Comstock Lode to Hangtown, where my father mined from 1855 to 1857.

"After more than 60 years of farming, I retired and now live on the old home place.

"Reading about this new growth, and seeing the houses being built all around me, I remember vividly seeing this Valley develop from a tangle of weeds and wild mustard, a harbor for coyotes and jackrabbits. Then I try to visualize it 20 years hence, when Oakland and San Jose come together at the crossroads!"

FAIR EXHIBITORS FETED AT NILES

Growers and manufacturers who earned for themselves and Alameda County nearly $3,000 in California State Fair premium money were luncheon guests of the Board of Supervisors at Niles Thursday.

The annual exhibitors' luncheon was arranged and emceed by Col. N. W. Armstrong, director of exhibits. Traditionally the luncheon featured vintages from Alameda wineries, including those of Mrs. Ann Mayock and Weibel Vineyards of Mission San Jose.

Supervisor Chester E. Stanley, chairman of the county board, welcomed the guests.

Ranking winners at the State Fair included the Japanese American Citizens League of Washington Township, represented by Miss Sumi Kato, taking home $450 in premium money for sweepstakes awards and other prizes in the vegetable division.

Prize ribbons were also collected by Kaz and Chuck Shikano of Centerville, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Collins and Mr. and Mrs. George Minami for floriculture and horticultural products displayed.

Commercial exhibitors rewarded included Leslie and Morton Salt companies of Newark, and the Kraftle Company of Niles.

Stanley to Speak

Supervisor Chester E. Stanley will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Washington Township Democratic Club next Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the Alameda County Office building.

Stanley will speak on "The Future of Our Township," surveying the problems as well as the possibilities in the coming surge of population growth. The meeting is open to the public.

Plans for a picnic and possible endorsement of a candidate for the 13th Assembly District post also are on the agenda.

Say you saw it in The Register.

Editor, Sir:

There seems to be some misunderstanding about the goal of the United Crusade in the campaign that is now in progress.

It has been quoted several times as being $13,000. This sum is the budget for the Washington Township Community Chest which is only a small part of the fund drive. The Community Chest includes only the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Irvington Youth Center, Mission San Jose Youth Center, Travelers Aid, U.C. D.S. Council of Southern Alameda Communities, and Washington Township Social Welfare Committee.

There are at least twenty other agencies whose services are available to residents of Washington Township and for whom money must be raised. The American Red Cross, the American Cancer Society, Children's Hospital, International Institute, are a small sampling of these agencies. The quota to be raised in the East Bay Crusade is over $3,000,000, of which we in Southern Alameda County must raise our proportionate share. As residential chairman for Washington Township, may I thank you for the wonderful cooperation your paper has given the United Crusade Drive.

Sincerely,

LUCRETIA H. MICHAEL
